

Hello all! My name is Emma. I am in my fourth year at the University of Dundee studying an undergraduate degree in English and Psychology and am now conducting research for my Psychology Dissertation. This focuses on the experience of those with Epidermolysis Bullosa (EB). As someone who also has this condition, my project aims to understand the experiences of those with this rare condition. In particular, it focuses on how those with EB believe others view them and how this makes them feel.

Taking part in my research involves a half-hour interview conducted online (over Teams). The interview would explore your experience with EB - especially how you believe others look at you and how this impacts your sense of self, the degree to which you feel (mis)understood and accepted, etc. Inevitably, as someone with this condition myself I know something about these issues. However, I am very keen to learn more about others' experiences concerning the public's reactions to those with this condition. I am hoping to interview at least 10 participants. My project will be finished at the end of March 2025, copies can be made available if you'd like. If you are interested in learning more (without any obligation to take part) please email me on-

Thank you very much!
